Trading Company

Company Overview

For many years, Jaban Trading Company has been operating in the Middle East to produce and export various types of canned food. This company always strives to use up-to-date machines and professional experts in this field, manufacturing quality and healthy products based on international standards. Once carefully examined in the company's laboratories, they are offered to the global markets. Considering the customer's health as a priority, we have launched a health management system in which all products are sampled and examined to ensure the quality of our products.

Business Description

The first canned food was invented in 1970 by the French government and a man named Nicolas Aper. Canning is made with conditions under which food can be stored for a long time without losing its properties. In other words, these products can be stored for one to two years without refrigeration. Nowadays, the increase in world population and the change in people's lifestyles have brought about changes in people's lifestyles, encouraging the use of ready-made food, especially in industrialized and developed countries. As a result, many countries worldwide have set up production lines for these products, including France, Germany, and Spain, which are among the largest producers in this field worldwide. Jaban Trading Company, taking advantage of advanced machinery and experienced personnel, has produced all kinds of canned food with the highest quality. Trying to meet the demands of traders and merchants in the Middle East, we have been able to turn into one of the leading producers in the Middle East.
